

Profile

I'm a driven and multifaceted story teller with degrees in Graphic Design and Writing. I am a motivated worker that can work independently or in a group, and I love projects that involve team work and outside perspectives. Using my strong organizational skills, my goal with all of my creative projects is to tell the story of what I'm working on in the final product.

Work History

Narrative Graphics Fellow, Telepath.io, Remote – February 2022 - May 2022

Learned about machine learning and artificial intelligence concepts in order to take knowledge and apply it to a narrative design that would serve as both marketing and an education tool for Telepath to produce for its customers. In the process of creating the narrative also developed worldbuilding and character designs to further promote concepts that the company suggested.

Freelance Artist/Designer – January 2020 - Present

Doing commissioned artwork including portraits and illustrations, as well as freelance graphic design work for various kinds of clients. Currently working with both small businesses and private clients to deliver graphics and visual design projects, as well as illustrations, that fit their needs.

Graphic Designer and Office Assistant, Nancy Fritz Designs, Seattle – April 2021 - September 2021

In charge of designs for various company materials such as door hangers and flyers, as well as uniform designs for landscapers out in the field. Besides graphic design work, also assists in office tasks such as filing and organization, and takes care of nursery plants on the property. I created a new filing system for old clients that saved time and increased productivity in the office.

Opinions Editor, Quaker Campus Newspaper, Whittier – September 2017 - May 2019

As Section Editor, was in charge utilizing my leadership skills and of pitching and assigning stories for Opinions, as well as coordinating with other sections to see if any coinciding stories were present. Once stories were submitted, in charge of giving feedback to the writer and then sending it to the copy editors for editing. Also was in charge of lay out and visual design for the section.

Student Technology Liaison, Whittier College Digital Liberal Arts Department, September 2016 – May 2018

Assisted students and faculty in learning different tools for digital story telling beyond the classic Powerpoint. Researched and learned new and exciting programs that can be incorporated into digital pedagogy. Helped create tutorials for unique programs such as Canva or Piktochart. Also was part of the administrative team for the DigLibArts blog, and assisted in writing blog posts on relevant such as useful apps for the New Year.
